

Dr. Chestnut and Mr. and Mrs. Peale, lie buried beneath the shadow of modest tombstones. Mr. and Mrs. Peale have a single stone, on one side of which is the inscription: 'Sacred to memory of Rev. John Rogers Peale, born in New Bloomfield, Pa., U. S. A., September 17, 1879, suffered martyrdom at Lienchow, October 28, 1905.' On reverse side is a similar one to Mrs. Peale."

'04. T. McKeen Chidsey has been admitted to the Pennsylvania Bar and is practicing in Philadelphia with offices in the Real Estate Trust Building.

'04. Theron Lee is taking post-graduate work at Princeton Seminary, having won a scholarship there for one year. He will continue his studies abroad next year. Mr. Lee has already taken his A.M. from Princeton University.

'05. Henry C. Edgar has gone south and may now be addressed at 909 North Spring St., Pensacola, Fla.

'07. T. H. Acker has accepted a position as civil engineer with the Pennsylvania Railroad with headquarters at Perth Amboy, N. J.

'07. Arthur C. Boyce has reached Teheran, Persia, where he is teaching English Bible and the sciences. He spent the summer in Europe traveling and taking in the wonders of the old world. Mr. Boyce has the unique position of teaching biology in a Persian school, because he is the pioneer along that line among the Shah subjects. We wish him success. He is associated with Mr. Jordan, class of '95.

'07. Fred Welsh, last year's baseball manager and star end on the '06 'Varsity football team, spent Sunday with his friends on the campus. Mr. Welsh is taking post-graduate work in forestry and agriculture at State College, where his father is acting president.

'07. James A. Darsie has accepted a position with the Pennsylvania Railroad, Conamaugh Division, with headquarters at Pittsburg. Mr. Darsie keeps in close touch with the affairs of the college.

'07. R. S. Hemingway is teaching mathematics at State College, where he may be addressed.

'07. John A. Hamilton, last year's mandolin club leader, has accepted a position as engineer with the Paterson (N. J.) Water Works, with address No. 158 Ellison Street, Paterson, N. J.

Ex-'08. M. C. Fairchild, who was a recent visitor on the campus, is now with Fox Bros. Engineering Supplies Co., at 126 Lafayette St., New York City.
