This course investigates the role of Latino immigrants in the U.S. political system, with a particular focus on the 2012 election. We begin by analyzing patterns of Latino immigration historically and today, and theories of immigration. Then we examine when and how both citizen and non-citizen Latinos engage in politics and to what extent these groups influence political outcomes. In particular, we will analyze the degree to which Latinos are engaging in the 2012 electoral campaign and how they may be influencing campaign messages and candidates, and ultimately, electoral results.

With the aid of literature in political science, economics and sociology, and data on public opinion, voting and legislative behavior, the class will attempt to answer questions such as: "Why are Latinos immigrating to the United States and where are they coming from?" and "Will Latino immigrants have an effect on the outcome of the 2012 election?" We will take a behavioral approach to analyze the public opinion and political participation of Latino citizens and non-citizens and then work to assess the institutional consequences of the Latino immigrant presence. In addition, the course will examine how native-born American citizens react to Latino immigration and how the preferences of whites, blacks and native Latinos are reflected in current immigration policy.

Overall, this course is designed to take an interdisciplinary approach to the study of Latino immigration. The goal is for students to integrate various theories and ideas in order to gain a more comprehensive view of Latino immigrants and their role in politics today.

Learning Objectives

By the end of this course students should be able to:

- Explain patterns of Latino immigration historically and today
- Analyze economic, social and psychological theories of immigration generally and Latino immigration specifically
- Understand and apply theories of Latino politics and political behavior
- Assess real data on the public opinion, political participation and political representation of Latino immigrants
- Understand the components of an academic research paper
- Produce an original research paper that addresses a question concerning Latino immigrants in the American political system
Course Texts

All required reading for this course will be available electronically on https://sakai.duke.edu/. You are required to complete all assigned reading for each class meeting.

A recommended text you may wish to purchase is Nan Lin’s Foundations of Social Research (1976). This book may help in writing your final research paper. It is available on Amazon.

Assignments

The assignments in this course will consist of two analytical papers, one in-class presentation, five quizzes and one final research paper.

- The analytical papers (5-6 pages, excluding the bibliography) will address major concepts covered in the course. You will choose to write on two of a choice of three paper topics. (A detailed description of the assignment will be distributed in class.) The due dates for the papers are: September 27th for the first topic, October 18th for the second topic, and November 27th for the third topic. The papers you choose to write are to be submitted to the Dropbox on Sakai by 11:59pm on the due date.

- Students will also be required to give a 5-10 minute in-class presentation on a scholarly article (not assigned on the syllabus) that is related to a subject matter discussed in the course. Students will be expected to read the article carefully and work to identify 1) the research question examined; 2) the theory; 3) the hypothesis/hypotheses tested; 4) the research methods used to test the hypothesis/hypotheses; and 5) the results of the analysis. The purpose of this assignment is to prepare students for their final paper and to enhance oral presentation skills. A presentation schedule will be established in the first week of the semester.

- The in-class quizzes (5) will cover material from both lecture and the readings. They will consist of short essay questions. Quiz dates are: Sept 18th, Oct 2nd, Oct 23rd, Nov 15th and Dec 4th

- The final project in this class will be a research paper, which will address an original question dealing with the role of Latino immigrants in American politics. Students will be expected to propose a research question by October 11th (which is to be approved by me) and submit a one-page paper outline (detailed assignment to follow) by November 6th. The final paper (12-15 double-spaced pages, 1 inch margins, 12-point font) will be modeled after a professional academic research paper, with sections outlining the question, theory, hypotheses, methodology, data description and expected results/preliminary analyses (no empirical analysis is required). It will be due on December 6th at 11:59pm.

- Students will also periodically be required to post questions on and discuss news articles and poll results concerning the 2012 election. This will count toward individual participation grades.
Extra Credit Opportunity

For a 2% point increase in your final grade you may participate in 2 hours of Political Science Research Pool (PSRP) studies over the course of the semester. More information on this option is available at http://www.duke.edu/web/psrp. If you wish to participate, you can register at: http://duke-psrp.sona-systems.com.

Grading

- Written concept papers (2) 20% (10% each)
- Quizzes (5) 25% (5% each)
- Final Research Paper 35%
- In-Class Presentation 10%
- Participation 10%

Note: Any student who is not satisfied with the grade received on a paper or quiz must submit, in writing, a description of the issue in dispute (i.e. what is allegedly mis-graded and why you believe your work is correct). If necessary, I will set up a meeting with the student to discuss the supposed grading mistake. I will then decide whether to raise, lower, or leave the grade unchanged.

Other Requirements:

- Attendance is required. Any unexcused absences will be reflected in your participation grade. Any absence that does not comply with the university’s short-term or long-term illness procedures or with the guidelines governing travel for university-sanctioned events will NOT be excused.
- All late assignments will be docked one full letter grade for every day they are late. Make sure you turn in everything on time.
- You may NOT use your cell phone to email or text message in class. Before you come to class, make sure that your cell phone is turned off and put away.
- You may use laptops in this class, however, if I see you emailing, surfing the Internet or checking Facebook, I will ask you to put it away and take notes by hand.
- The University Code of Academic Integrity (The Honor Code) is taken seriously in this class. Violations or suspected violations will be reported to the proper authorities. Academic dishonesty includes signing someone else’s name on attendance sheets, signing the attendance sheet and not attending class, and both the giving and the receiving of improper assistance on examinations and other graded work. Please familiarize yourself with what constitutes plagiarism.
- I also expect everyone in this class to be respectful of the opinions of others. During class discussions, I ask that you be courteous of other students and the instructor at all times.

Class Schedule and Reading Assignments:

Please read in order of assignments
(Note: This schedule is subject to slight modifications)

August 28: Introduction
August 30: No Class- American Political Science Association Conference

September 4,6: Latino immigrants: Examining historical patterns of Latino immigration to the U.S., exploring where Latinos immigrated from, where they settled overtime and where they are settling today. We will also focus on the development of key U.S. immigration laws and their effects on Latino immigration patterns as well as key demographic features of the major Latino subpopulations living in the U.S. today.

Reading:

*Additional Reading: “Types of Visas for Immigrants” U.S. Department of State.

September 11,13: Theories of Immigration: What is a theory? Analyzing general economic, social and institutional theories of immigration and comparing these to theories of Latino immigration specifically

Readings:

-----Quiz #1: September 18th------

September 18, 20: Assimilation or Exclusion?: Assessing theories of assimilation and the debate on Latino assimilation trends today
Reading:

-----Paper 1 Due September 27th-----

September 25, 27: Theories of Latino Politics: Analyzing theoretical frameworks for studying/understanding Latinos and the political process

Reading:

-----Quiz #2: October 2nd-----

October 2, 4: Political attitudes of Citizen and Non-Citizen Latino Immigrants: Examining the determinants of Latino immigrant policy attitudes and partisanship

Reading:

- Choice of Recent Poll Presented on Latino Decisions. To be discussed in class

-----Research Question Due October 11th-----

October 9, 11, 18: Political participation: Citizen and Non-Citizen Latino Immigrants: Looking at political mobilization and voting behavior of naturalized Latinos and the political involvement of non-citizen Latinos. Focus on participation in the 2010 and 2012 elections
Reading:

- Review interactive map presented at http://www.latinovotemap.org/map/ and prepare to discuss in class

Fall Break: October 13-16

-----Paper 2 due October 18th------

October 23rd: Quiz #3 and Research paper day

Reading:

- Enterline, Andrew. 2007. “Guide to Writing Research Projects in Graduate Political Science Courses.”

October 25, 30, Nov. 1: Political representation and effect on elections: Citizen and Non-Citizen Latino Immigrants:

Topics: Assessing the substantive and descriptive representation of Latino immigrants and the influence these individuals are having on elected officials and candidates.

Reading:

- Casellas, Jason A. 2007. "Latino Representation in Congress: To What Extent are Latinos Substantively Represented?" In Latino Politics: Identity, Mobilization and

- Search polls/articles on Obama and Romney and representation of Latino immigrant interests. Prepare to discuss in class

------Final Paper outline due November 6th------

November 6, 8, 13: Native Reactions to Latino immigration: Public Opinion (and discussion of election results!!) Assessing native attitudes on legal and undocumented immigration

Reading:

------Quiz #4 November 15th------

November 15, 20: Native Reactions to Latino immigration: Policy Creation: Analyzing the effect of mass attitudes on immigration policy and the passage of policy to restrict both citizen and non-citizen immigrants
Reading:

Thanksgiving Break: Nov. 21-25th

-----Paper 3 due November 27th------

November 27, 29: The future of Latino Immigrants in America: Looking at future trends in Latino immigration to the U.S. and predictions on Latino politics post-2012

Reading:

- Additional articles TBD

December 4: Quiz #5 and Final Wrap Up

December 6: Final Papers DUE!!